Order Issued Mustering Pershing Out

Defense Test Satisfactory, But General Shake-Up Of Military Bodies Expected

"One Day" Service Fails To Turn Out Full Quota But Few Cities Take Part In Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A general shakeup of the reserve organization of the army seemed probable today as a result of certain disappointments in the defense test.

Although the war department termed the general results satisfactory, it is understood that the turnout of "one day" volunteers and the number of communities participating were not entirely what was hoped for.

838,000 Offered Service Out of the 10,792,781 persons who "participated" in the test throughout the country, only 838,000 actually offered themselves for "one-day" service with any of the regular military organizations.

With 120,000 regular army troops and 272,000 national guard troops, the actual military mobilization was only 1,220,000 men.

Inasmuch as the war department's plans for the defense test emphasized a desire that participants in the test offer themselves to parade for the day with one of the regular organizations, the result was not wholly pleasing. Another feature of the test that was disappointing was the relatively small proportion of American communities which held services.

6,335 Cities Participated "Though all the large ones held imposing demonstrations, the total number of communities engaged was only 6,335, or about one-eighth of the 52,000 incorporated communities of the country.

The war department's view that the test was satisfactory is based on the fact that this was the first test and consequently a full and efficient response was perhaps not to be expected.

MYSTERY CRIME AGAIN DUG UP

Negro Accused of Slaying 2 Years Old

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 13.—Murder of Mrs. Fanny Goldstein in July, 1922, one of several unsolved Beaumont mysteries, will be brought before the public eye again with the arrest of Henry Hopkins, negro, at Shreveport. Indictment against Hopkins, who was held in connection with the case shortly after the killing, was returned yesterday by the grand jury on fresh evidence secured.

Testimony developed by Detectives Buck Smith, who has been working on the case constantly for two years now, charges that Hopkins was seen in Goldstein's grocery store quarreling with the woman several minutes before she was shot, it is said. Statement to this effect is said to have been signed by one of six witnesses examined in connection with the two-year mystery by the grand jury.

Under Surveillance Hopkins was arrested two days after the murder, but was later released when the grand jury failed to return an indictment. Hopkins has been working in Shreveport since his release from jail, officers steadily keeping an eye on him.

The negro was arrested in Shreveport Thursday in advance of the indictment as a "fugitive from justice," and as a precautionary measure. The arrest was made by Detective Charles Chelle of the Shreveport police department. A Beaumont officer was on his way to Shreveport today to bring back Hopkins.

Mrs. Goldstein was shot down in her grocery store on the night of July 1, 1922. Her store was located on Park avenue between Emmett and Langham streets.

POLO AGAIN HOLDING INTEREST OF PRINCE

SYOSSET, L. I., Sept. 13.—Polo again today attracted the attention of the Prince of Wales as he prepared for the third time to watch his countrymen meet America's crack mallet men.

He was up early—that is early for the royalty—and plunged into the marble pool at the Burden estate. His activities of last night included a small dinner party at the home of H. R. Wintrop at Woodbury.

WEATHER CONDITIONS BARRED U. S. FLIERS

Weather conditions that made the trip impossible kept U. S. army fliers at Kelly field, San Antonio, from coming to Port Arthur for the Defense Day celebration here Friday afternoon, a telegram from the commanding officer of the field to T. D. Owens, local aviator, stated.

Invitation has been extended to two army fliers from Brooks field, to visit Port Arthur Sunday, September 21, Owens said.

MANY MARCH IN DEFENSE TEST

Program Includes All Civic Clubs of City

Port Arthur answered "Here!" thousands strong, when the first celebration of National Defense Day was staged Friday afternoon.

In a procession several blocks long, hundreds of ex-service men, soldiers in the two Texas National Guard units here, Red Cross nurses, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts and members of various civic organizations, paraded up Procter street from the Kansas City Southern depot to Lions park.

Two Bands Played

Two brass bands, one the regimental band of the 11th Engineers, the other the Boosters Band, a civilian organization, played for the parade and again in Lions Park, where Rev. C. E. Weidner, pastor of the First Congregational church, gave a Defense Day address.

Leading the parade up Procter street were corps of motorcycle police and a detachment of the police force walking. Mayor J. P. Logan, Col. C. H. Fitzgerald and Police Chief Covington rode on horseback near the head of the procession, and following came the National Guard units, the band, ex-service men, and other organizations in the line of march.

Motor Trucks Used

One of the most striking features of the parade was the section given over to the motor truck transport corps. Scores of trucks ranging from heavy chain-drive types to light flyver delivery trucks from refineries and business establishments in Port Arthur were entered in this section of the parade.

At Lions park, where brief exercises were held, Rev. A. G. Grutten, of the Catholic church, Rev. C. E. Weidner of the First Congregational church, and Rev. V. A. Godfrey, of the First M. E. church, south, took part, the audience singing patriotic songs played by the Regimental and Boosters bands.

Brushing aside the objections raised against Defense Day by those claiming it will increase the spirit of militarism in this country and cause nations of the world to view the celebration as an unfriendly move, Rev. Weidner declared the observance of National Defense Day is justified and needed. He pointed out the necessity for the United States to be prepared for the next war, which will be of comparatively short duration and end victoriously for the nation striking quickly and effectively.

2 Dining Car Men Hurt in Crash

DALLAS, Sept. 13.—Two dining car employees were slightly injured and passengers shaken up when three coaches of the Texas & Pacific Sunline Special, eastbound, left the rails near Willis Point, east of here early last night. Due to the fact the derailment occurred at a curve in a deep cut, none of the cars overturned.

Traffic during the night was tied up pending track repairs. Cause of the derailment has not been determined.

Famous Singer Has Rigid Schedule for Work, Play and Sleep

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—No labor expert, social reformer or overworked employee is a more ardent advocate of the eight-hour day than Sophie Braslau, the singer.

"I believe every woman—housekeeper, professional or business worker—should so plan her day that she may do her actual work in eight hours, leaving eight for sleep and eight for recreation, food and fads," she told me.

Unlike most enthusiasts, she actually practices what she preaches. Her daily schedule has the rigidity of the much exploited Medes and Persians. Here it is:

Eight o'clock sharp, rise. Nine to nine, a quick shower and long walk, regardless of weather. Nine to nine-thirty, breakfast, very light.

Nine-thirty to ten, consultation with the housekeepers and a glance at the morning papers. Ten to one, vocal practice, during which time she answers no telephone messages and sees no callers. One to one-thirty, luncheon.

His Job Bigger Than King's, But Boss Of Reparations Only 31

Saymour Parker Gilbert Will Carry Out Tonnets Of Dawes Adjustment Plan Under Assignment

By CHARLES P. STEWART, News Special Writer WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—One of the biggest jobs in all this world has fallen to the lot of a young man of 31.

It is a job far more important even than a president's or king's—temporarily, at least.

On his handling the fate of nations hangs.

The job is agent general for reparations payments under the Dawes plan. And the man is Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr., of New York.

But the magnitude of his tasks in putting war-torn Europe on its feet again doesn't face him in the slightest. For Gilbert has been doing big things since 1918, when he was called out of a law office to become a member of the war loan staff.

At 25 he was directing all Uncle Sam's Liberty Bond sales. Two years later he was elevated to the post of assistant secretary of the treasury, though of a different political faith than the administration he was serving.

When the republicans came in, he held over despite opposition from politicians. And then through a special act of congress, he was elevated to the newly created post of under secretary. That gave him authority second only to the secretary's.

Until his resignation two years later to return to his old legal practice, he handled virtually all the government's public debt problems, including the tangled European loans.

So it is no wonder he has been called upon to put the experts' report in operation.

Handles Big Sums It will be his duty to receive the enormous sums Germany is due to pay in war damages and transfer them to the various allied claimants.

This may look simple, but the moving of vast amounts of money from country to country always tends to upset international exchange and the exchange fluctuations of most post-war years.

H. R. H. Cap Causes Fight, But Envoy Of Styles Victor

THE Prince of Wales caused a lot of trouble in Port Arthur the other night.

Of course, the Prince wasn't here, but H. R. H. was responsible all the same, don't you know.

One of Port Arthur's young sports, following the Henglish lead in clothing styles, was sporting what is known as a Prince of Wales cap.

Another young Port Arthur sport met the first one in front of the library or thereabouts and frankly told his friend he didn't like the cap or the Prince of Wales either. In fact, he became slightly rough about it in the tenor of his remarks.

"Well, you and I are either going to be friends or not, and I've had enough of it," the envoy of men's fashions declared.

Agreed, and the pair led the way across the street to the great open spaces sheltered by darkness, a motley crowd of admirers following. They fought and fought until they couldn't fight any more, according to best reports. Finally their force was spent so that their blows would fall before reaching the opponent.

The Prince of Wales cap won. Incidentally, the "Prince of Wales" was considerably smaller than his opponent.

H. R. H. Dominating The Feminine Styles

And the Prince of Wales is even dominating the feminine fashion world.

This fact is shown in the beautiful coat, now being displayed in Hodges company's window. The coat is an exact reproduction of one of those worn by the Prince of Wales upon his arrival in the United States. The material, however, is different, the one being displayed here being made of the Royal Down, its name being derived from its regal origin.

One-third to two, consultation with her secretary and dictation of letters. Two to four, practice work with an accompanist. Four to five, ten hour, during which she holds open house to all her friends. Evenings or afternoons of concerts she varies her schedule so she rests two hours during the day and cuts down two hours of practice.

Evenings she is not appearing, she spends reading, dancing, attending the theater or in any form of amusement she selects.

"It was my experience," she explained, "that before I actually laid down the law to myself, I never really accomplished all I wanted to or could during the day. What should have been done in the morning was postponed until afternoon or even the next day."

"Now system is as much a part of my life as my music is. I make my day pleasant at the beginning and at the end, and where the heavy part comes, in the middle of the day, it takes care of itself."

"I know," she admitted, "it is easier for me to keep on schedule than a woman who keeps house and has unexpected demands on her time, but I believe that it is a definite program for every day, and if she alternates her work with regular periods of recreation and relaxation, she will accomplish more in the end and be happier doing so."

ARMY CAREER IS REVIEWED

President Coolidge Retires General From Service

PAID TRIBUTE

Became General Officer During Year of 1906

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—President Coolidge today issued the order which retired General John J. Pershing from active service with the army and at the same time extended to him "the thanks of the nation for his eminent services."

Though Pershing's connection with the army was automatically severed at midnight last night, the president cassetized his retirement to the army today with a detailed review of Pershing's career, a tribute rarely received by an army officer from his commander-in-chief.

White House Order The order follows: The White House, Washington, September 13, 1924.

"General John J. Pershing, general of the armies, having reached the age of 61 years, is retired from active service in conformity with a requirement of an act of congress approved June 30, 1882.

"In announcing the termination of this distinguished soldier's active military career, it is deemed appropriate to remind the country of his eminent services and of the nation's obligations to one whose accomplishments contributed so largely to the defense of the world's liberties.

A variety of musical entertainment, vocal and instrumental, with dancing and tableaux numbers by over 100 Port Arthur Camp Fire Girls, comprised the program of the 11th Engineers' show which opened in the Elks theater Friday night to run through Sunday night.

Every number presented brought enthusiastic applause from the audience, and the performers were called back time and again for encores. Opening the production was a patriotic tableau, arranged by the Camp Fire Girls. Indian dances, ballet dancing and solo dances also were given by the girls in brilliant costumes.

CAR IS RECOVERED; YOUTH JAILED HERE

Two hours after W. N. Haley, 1935 Seventh street, reported to police his automobile had been stolen from the Texas Company parking shed on Houston avenue, Traffic Officer M. E. Davis recovered the car and placed a youth found in under arrest, it was reported at police headquarters today.

A girl found with the young man in the automobile, parked on Houston avenue a few blocks away from where the car was taken, told police she was asked to go riding and knew nothing about the theft of the automobile. She was released, and the young man was lodged in the city jail booked on the police blotter for investigation.

Despite Weather, Fliers Hop Off Resuming Jaunt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Despite adverse weather forecasts, the round the world fliers will hop off about 9 a. m. for Dayton, Ohio, Lieutenant Smith said early today. At 9:30 a. m. the fliers were all set to hop off but Lieutenant Smith deferred the departure because of a late report of rain over West Virginia, near Moundsville, where the air service maintains a landing field. Smith, however, still expected to get away this morning.

9306 AND 9305 PUT TO WORK

Loeb, Leopold Start Life's Grind in Prison

JOLIET, Sept. 13.—Prisoner 9306, Richard Loeb, prisoner from Chicago, today started to work putting together chairs in the prison shop. Prisoner 9305, Nathan Leopold, also of Chicago, also began weaving in the rattan shop at the same time.

Marched to Breakfast After another night in "court solitary," the two youths who got a thrill out of murdering Bobby Franks were called at 6 o'clock. And placed in the line of march for breakfast.

With their assignments to cells, "king and slave" will be separated for several years, if not forever. Henceforward they will see each other only at a distance in assembly and in the dining room, where they will have an opportunity to speak. Several years from now, it is possible they will meet again on the prison honor farm or at some other "outside job." Until then they must follow separate trails.

Advised to use "good judgment and not to put on airs" if they wanted to make prison life bearable, they protested that they had no intentions of being "upstage" and added:

"If we had good judgment, we would not be here."

MANCHURIA IN CHINA WAR NOW

Chang Tso Lin Enters Field Against Peking

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord, has begun war against the Peking government, according to the Morning Post's Tien Tsin correspondent.

Martial law has been declared at Mukden and Chang troops are streaming southward to attack the capital, while Chi Li troops of Wu Pei Fu are moving northward to meet them.

Trains Held Up

All southbound trains from Mukden are being held up by Chang's troops and allowed to proceed only as far as Shan Kai Kwan, where the railroad passes through the great wall of China. The Manchurian governor controls everything north of the wall.

The first battle of the war for Peking probably will be fought in the vicinity of Shan Kai Kwan. There was a minor clash yesterday when some Chang troops tried to steal a train and carry it off to Mukden. They ran an engine across the Shan Kai Kwan border and coupled it to the train, but were seen and routed by Chi Li troops before they could make away with the spoils.

High Chi Li officials declare there is not the slightest doubt that Chang will attempt to storm Peking.

According to the morning Post's correspondent, W. A. Yen, who was secretary to the Chinese legation in Washington in 1908-10 and later minister to Germany and to Denmark, has been elected premier of the Peking government.

HUNDREDS JOIN IN HOUSTON CELEBRATION

HOUSTON, Sept. 13.—Under leadership which momentarily threatened downpour of rain, hundreds of citizens of Houston joined with military veterans organizations of the Spanish, Civil and World wars in a monster defense day demonstration parade a mile in length.

Ten thousand persons registered in all national guard and reserve units in Houston during the day, according to General John A. Hulen, commander of the 30th division, who reported in a telegram to Washington that the 30th division reported over war strength in every unit by a surplus of more than 2,000 men.

FIRST ELECTROCUTION FOR GEORGIA TODAY

MILLEGAVILLE, Ga., Sept. 13.—Georgia's first electrocution was scheduled to take place at the prison farm, here this afternoon when Hiram Hinton will be put to death for attacking a white woman.

The state's electric chair, which succeeds the noose as a means of capital punishment, was given a final test this morning, and pronounced ready for the execution.

Hinton arose early and told prison attendants he was "prepared to go."

LAST EFFORT TO VINDICATE YOUTH FAILS

Attorney to Ask Clemency Of Illinois Governor

CITES FRANKS CASE

May Prove Separate Laws For Rich, Poor

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Public interest here is being focused on a slight, 19-year-old boy, with prematurely white hair, who sits in "death row" in the county jail, under sentence to hang on October 17.

The boy is Bernard Grant, from "back of the yards," Chicago, who was forced to give up school at the age of 14 to help support his family, and who can't see why Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire sons, escaped the death penalty to a confessed murder, while he is sentenced to hang on what his attorney terms very flimsy evidence.

Case Reviewed

Attorney Thomas E. Swanson is preparing to go before Governor Small with a request for a commutation of sentence. Swanson said he would point to the Leopold-Loeb case, as the latest precedent of a Chicago court against hanging boys under the age of 21.

"If this boy Grant hangs he will convince many people that we really have one law for the rich and one law for the poor," Swanson told the United Press today. "This boy was convicted on very flimsy evidence which has been largely repudiated since the trial and our vain appeal to the supreme court. In December of 1922 two boys held up a clerk in a chain grocery store. Patrolman Ralph S. Souder, who was in back of the store came out and was ordered to hold up his hands. This he did but he attempted to seize the gun pointed by one of the boys and was shot and killed.

"A little later, Walter Krauser and Bernard Grant were arrested. Krauser pleaded guilty to the murder. Grant denied having been with Krauser. But Krauser's confession indicated Grant stood trial.

Grant Emmeshed "The clerk of the store testified Grant looked something like the boy who was with Krauser. The only other witness was a man who said he had seen a person resembling Grant in the neighborhood of the store earlier in the day.

"The jury returned a verdict of guilty and ordered a sentence of death. Since then Krauser has made a statement denying Grant was with him.

Denied Education

"Here is a boy born back of the stock yards, with no advantages of education and refinement, who was taken from school after finishing the seventh grade to help support his family, who was found guilty on evidence so transparent as to be ridiculous and ordered hanged.

"We will now see whether there is such a thing as justice.

"We will now see whether is one thing."

Grant's shock of hair has turned white.

"I don't want to die," Grant said. "I didn't have a hand in this. I'm innocent."

ACCUSED

Houston Man Held For Alleged Slaying

HOUSTON, Sept. 12.—J. A. Duff, Houston, is being held on a charge of murder, a woman companion is slightly wounded and a negro big-jacker is dead as the result of an attempted holdup near here last night.

According to the story told by Duff and corroborated by his woman companion, the two were sitting in an automobile at the roadside when the negro leveled a shotgun at them and demanded that the woman search Duff. After turning over Duff's valuables to him the negro ordered the woman to leave the car.

As the negro started to leave with the woman, Duff reached for his pistol and the negro fired. In the change of shots which followed the woman was slightly wounded by a bullet from Duff's gun and the negro slain.

Duff surrendered to officers.

GEORGE PFANN GIVES BOYS POINTS ON HOW TO PLAY STAR FOOTBALL

"George Pfann was probably the greatest football player of the season and the highest scorer in the entire country."—Athletic World.

Today Pfann, famous All-American quarterback and captain of the Cornell team for 1923, will answer another question on the game of which he is a master. Pfann is writing especially for the boys reading this page. This year he is coaching back at his own university, where he is telling the "green" ones who came out for the team exactly the same valuable things about the game that he tells the readers of this page.

Just What Is the Use of the Stiff Arm and How Is It Worked?
The stiff arm has a three-fold purpose. It is used mainly to ward off tacklers by keeping them away from the runner's legs, but may also be used to help the runner start (by shoving off from a tackler), and a shock absorber to break the force of an unavoidable tackle.

In warding off tacklers who are running low, the hand may be placed upon the shoulder or back of the tackler and the resulting pressure causes him to become overbalanced. Thus the force of the charge is wasted on the ground. The tackler who is standing upright may be overbalanced backwards by the stiff arm in the face.

In using the tackler as an aid to running, the force of his charge is absorbed by the stiff arm and a brace is offered in which the hand as well as the legs is used to aid the runner.

When it is impossible to avoid a tackle, either because the other man is too fast or because of the position in the field of play the stiff arm which yields gradually with the charge breaks the tackle and saves the runner a possible injury.

The stiff arm should be used only in a broken or semi-broken field, and then only after the ball is securely held. The arm is held stiff like a lance except that it is in a rotating socket and the business end is the heel or palm of the hand.

(Next week Pfann will give some pointers on forward passing. This is a part of the game that he knows a lot about, as players who have come up against the stocky captain will tell you.)

NADINE'S SECRET AND A LOCK ON A CABINET

No one really knew anything at all about Nadine. She was some sort of distant relative of Mrs. Hancock, the wealthy woman who was sending Nadine to Glenwood School, so the story went. Nadine had said simply that her parents were dead and she didn't live anywhere.

She was such a good sport and so altogether likeable that in that school where most of the girls boasted fine families she was accepted as she was and the air of mystery about her was forgotten. At vacation times she usually visited one of the girls, for some one was always eager to take her home. Mrs. Hancock, who sometimes wrote to her but never came to see her, seemed to provide her with enough money to care for her well enough, for Nadine was not extravagant.

It was the beginning of Nadine's third year in the boarding school. She and Gracie Abbott had a room together right next to that of Mrs. Seaton, housekeeper in their dormitory. The two girls, one late afternoon, were sitting in their room studying, when suddenly there were loud screams in the hallway. They ran out into the hall at the same time that Mrs. Seaton also rushed out of her room.

Down the hall came little Eleanor Potter, one hand streaming blood. Her roommate, who ran after her, explained breathlessly, "Eleanor was opening a can of preserves from home, and she got a bad rash on the can. Oh, dear, someone call the doctor!"

Mrs. Seaton was very pale. "The doctor has gone over to Bergerville for the day. And—and I just discovered this morning that the key to my medicine chest, which I always keep locked is lost. I sent for old Tom to fix it, but he hasn't got around—"

"Oh, her hand ought to be bandaged up tight away. It might get infected!" exclaimed Gracie, frightened.

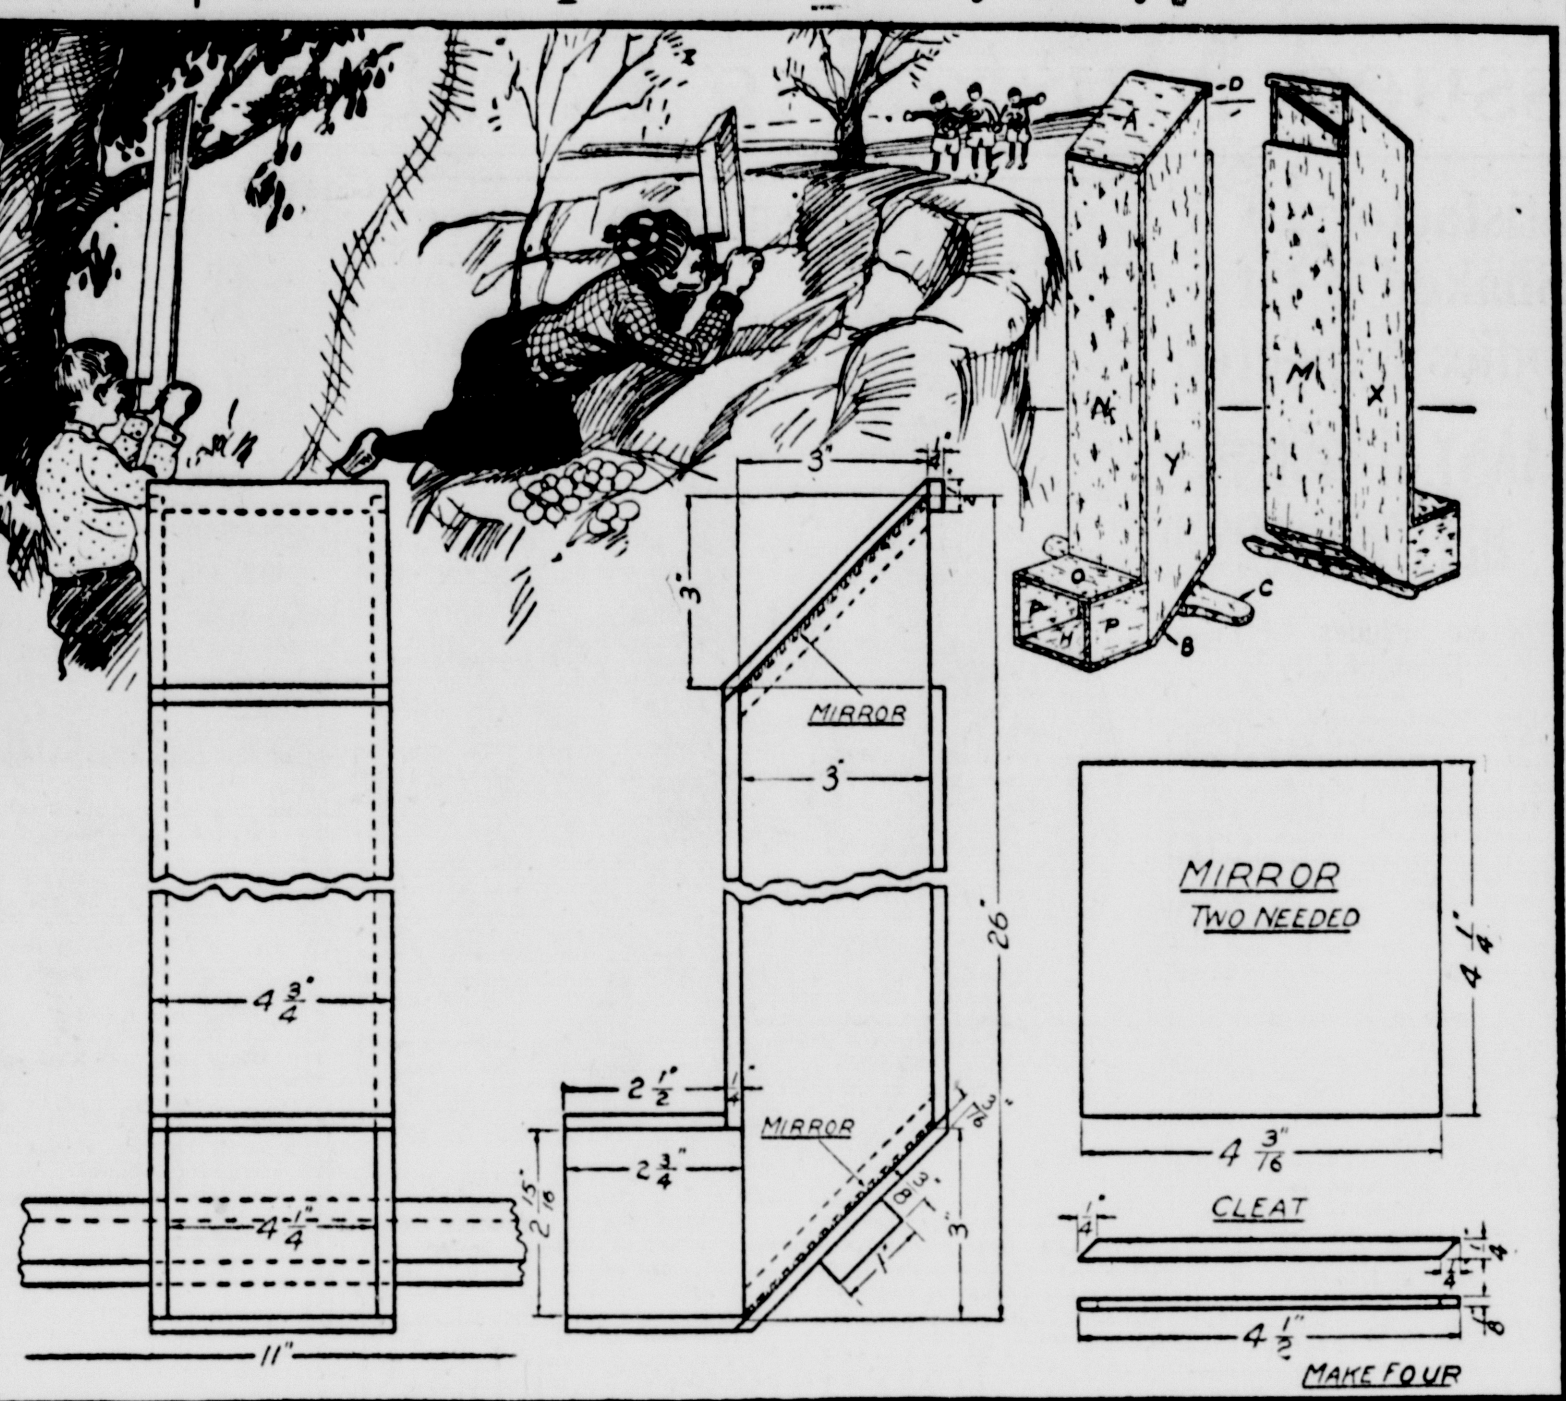

(Copyright, 1924, Associated Editors, Inc.)

Other girls had come up and they looked at each other helplessly a moment, while Eleanor sobbed and moaned.

Nadine stepped forward, her face drawn, an odd look in her eyes. "Mrs. Seaton," she said quietly, "if you will leave me alone in your room for a few moments, I think I can open your cabinet." Before they could answer she had gone into her own room, to return with some scissors and a small knife. Then she went to Mrs. Seaton's room and shut the door.

A few minutes later Nadine came out. "The cabinet is open," she said, in a dull, lifeless voice.

Here's A Periscope That Any Boy Can Make

BY FRANK SOLAR

You can make a real periscope, just like the men in the trenches used to peep over the top with, if you follow carefully the drawing above.

You'll find a lot of uses for your periscope—studying birds and small animals, for you can keep yourself out of sight, looking over the tops of rocks during sham fights, and keeping an eye on the enemy when winter comes with its snow forts and exciting snowball battles.

This really isn't a difficult article to make—you can get your material from an orange crate cigar box, and broken looking glass. The parts are assembled with 3-4 in. No. 18 wire brads or cigar box nails. The one in the picture is just about the right length to be carried about conveniently, but of course your periscope can be made any length that you wish.

Start by making the two sides, X and Y, which are 3 inches wide and 26 inches long. Measure up from the lower right-hand corner three inches and from this point draw a line to the opposite corner. Cut carefully along the line.

If you have followed the dimensions carefully the end will be cut at an angle of 45 degrees. Make the same layout on the other end of the side piece and cut it out also. This cut must be made parallel to the first and at an angle of 45 degrees.

Next get out four cleats and nail them parallel to the 45 degree ends. They should be nailed on the surfaces that go inside of the periscope box and as far from the end as the mirror is thick.

The front board, M, comes next. It should be bradded to the sides. The lower end is to be planed to 45 degrees after it has been fastened in place.

Make the back, N, and before nailing it to the sides nail O to it. Also plane the top end to 45 degrees. Now make parts P, Q, and H. Brad them in place.

She turned and started quickly for her room. But she didn't get in. Gracie's arms were around her, and then she was nearly smothered in an avalanche of hugs offered all at once by the girls of the exclusive Glenwood School.

Borrow a glass cutter and cut the pieces of mirror to fit in the ends of the periscope. Make the top and bottom, A and B, of cigar box wood and fasten handle C to B. Place the pieces of mirror in the ends and brad A and B to the sides holding the mirrors in place. The little strip D is fastened to the sides by brads and keeps the upper mirror from slipping out.

The periscope may be finished, or the wood may be left in its natural state. It will be improved however, if the inside of the box is painted a dull black before it is assembled. The black, if not glossy, will eliminate any reflections that might interfere with working the periscope right.

To use the periscope, hold it by the handles and look through the box visor at the bottom end.

BRAVERY UNDER THE "BIG TOP"

Being a clown isn't as funny as it seems. There are times when a clown falls or gets struck when it seems to the audience that it's all part of his stunt—and it isn't. But it's a clown's business to get tight-wire walker, a girl named Zazel, that shows the kind of pluck you will find in the circus.

Star Actress

"The Adam Forepaugh Shows were playing in Butte, Montana. The big tent was crowded with people eager to be thrilled by some dare-devil performer. Zazel, a star actress, was introduced by the ring master. She climbed to her wire stretched twenty-five feet above the ground. The crowds gasped at her daring stunts. Suddenly Zazel slipped. Down she crashed to the earth twenty-five feet below.

"The audience was hushed. Surely Zazel had been killed. Attendances rushed to her. She made an effort to arise. They prepared to carry her out of the ring to the dressing tent. She wouldn't let them, however. Pushing them all aside, she got to her feet. With a smile and a wave at the audience she walked slowly but determinedly toward the entrance of the dressing tent.

How to Crowd

"When she approached the entrance she turned to the crowd. The people were all shouting and applauding wildly, for they realized that Zazel surely must be suffering some pain from her fall, though apparently she had been no more than a little stunned. Zazel smiled at the crowd and gave her little bow.

"Then she stepped inside the dressing room and collapsed, really badly hurt."

the laughs, and he doesn't expect any sympathy. "It's the clown's second nature to get hurt," says Will Delavoye, a famous "old school" clown.

"But clowns don't take the risks the other performers do," he says modestly. "I remember, for instance, the bravery of a little

THE LUCKY IDOL

"If only dear father had left us something beside all this junk," sighed Natalie.

The two girls were sadly cleaning out their father's library, the week following his sudden death. They were orphans now, and since they couldn't very well run the house themselves they were being packed up to go home with Aunt Florence, who had promised their father to look after them.

"Anyway," said Natalie, "it's nice for Professor Atkins to agree to buy father's collection. It's no use to us." She looked scornfully at the strange bowls and daggers and idols which Professor Davis, their father, had picked up in his travels.

Marion took up a queer looking little clay idol, oddly painted. "I think I'm going to keep this one. Father was especially proud of it. It's some rare kind of lucky idol he got in a hidden temple in the hill country."

"I can't see it brought him much luck," sniffed Natalie. "Maybe you have to rub it. Like Alladin's lamp," smiled Marion. "Then maybe you make a wish, or something."

Natalie looked with some scorn at her dreamy sister, so like her impractical father. "Well, wishing never gets any one anywhere. If it did you'd be taking those dancing lessons you always talked about. Father always said he 'wished' you could, but that's all it got you. Well, I'm going to pack up these things. You can keep the old idol, if you like."

Her shoulders shook, and as she raised one hand to wipe her tears the idol slipped from her trembling fingers—slipped and fell to the floor, breaking in little pieces. "Natalie!" Marion was down on her knees among the pieces. She held up a shining yellow lump of gold. "Natalie, look, inside the lucky idol! It must have been hidden there when the idol was made by the priests. It must be worth—"

"Oh!" Natalie stooped beside her. "It's yours, Marion," she said quietly. "It means your dancing lessons. And—and I guess it serves me right."

Fountain of the Desert

The cactus plant is the fountain of the desert. When a traveler's water supply has become exhausted he can obtain water by supporting a cactus trunk on stones, building a fire at either end, and making a hole in the middle. The effect of the heat is to draw the water out of the hole.

Another way to procure water is to cut off the top of a barrel cactus, pound up the pulp and squeeze it. The water is rather salty and bitter, but is clear and palatable.

The plants are widely distributed in European countries, and with the exception of a single species, all are natives of America. Here they grow in the hot, dry sections of the country, particularly in southwestern United States and northern Mexico.

Use Cactus As Medicine
The "mesquite button," or "payote" cactus, is a strong stimulant, and is temporarily quiet all hunger, thirst, or fatigue pangs. The Mexican Indians use this cactus for medicinal and religious purposes.

'AIR' REVIVAL IS CONCLUDED

Rev. Oliphant Completes His Sermons Here

The open air revival at DeQueen Park Church of Christ closed last night after three weeks duration. The meeting was conducted by Evangelist W. L. Oliphant of Norman, Okla., who though only 24 years old, has been in the ministry nine years, during which time he has had a great success from the standpoint of conversions.

Rev. Oliphant's subject last evening was "Excuses." He said: "Men have always attempted to excuse themselves for neglect of duty. Excuses are as old as the race. When Adam attempted to excuse himself by saying Eve ate first. When Eve was approached, she laid the fault on the serpent. But the first excuse was not made by either man or woman. The first excuse was made by the old serpent (the devil) when he attempted to excuse Eve in violating the law of God.

Men Seek Excuses

"Men today attempt to excuse themselves in rejecting the invitation to enter the church. One of the stock excuses is that there are hypocrites in the church. Now I am not going to deny that there are hypocrites in the church, at least nominally; but what has that to do with my duty? Before a man can be in my church he must be ahead of me. So if the hypocrite is in your way, he must be between you and heaven, hence nearer heaven than you are. If he were behind you, you would notice him. I don't let a hypocrite be nearer heaven than you are. It is impossible to avoid the hypocrite in this life. The only way I know to get away from him is to do my duty in this life and go to heaven where there will be no hypocrisy.

"Considering circumstances, I regard the meeting as having been a success. Thirty-seven have been added to the church. I believe much good has been done otherwise. I want to thank the good people of Port Arthur for their hospitality and cooperation. I especially desire to thank the Port Arthur News for the consideration it has given us. Everything the committee has sent into the News office has been published as nearly verbatim as was practical. We appreciate this; and I desire to publicly thank the management of the paper for this consideration.

"I also wish to thank the city officials for their kindness in permitting us to rope off the street in front of the church. Without this and the permission of the folks on either side of the church to use their lawns, we would have been unable to take care of the crowds."

Rev. Oliphant will preach in Houston Sunday. He goes from there to Elk City, Okla., for his next revival.

stioned officer, after graduation at the United States Military Academy in 1880, he endured the hardships of the Indian campaigns then necessary for the pacification of the western frontier. In the war with Spain he participated in the Santiago campaign in Cuba. In the Philippine Islands after their acquisition by the United States it fell to his lot to assist in the suppression of the native insurrection, and his remarkable success in bringing under control some of the most turbulent tribes is a matter of history.

"Becoming a general officer in 1906, he was entrusted with many important commands and when the unsettled conditions on the border of Mexico in 1916 made it necessary to send a military expedition into that country he was selected for its command. In exercising this command, as well as others that had fallen to him, he demonstrated his capacity for the highest military functions and his selection as the commander of the American expeditionary forces in the World War was a natural consequence.

Selection Justified

"His conduct of that high command fully justified the selection as well as elevation to the highest rank in our military service, which was conferred upon him permanently, under authority of a special act of congress, in recognition of his fulfillment of his country's expectations.

"The American troops under his command, by their presence, high qualities and skillful management, assisted materially in the defeat of the central powers of Europe which resulted in the freedom of civilization from autocratic rule.

"He is one of the very few officers who have held the rank of general in the permanent military establishment and the one who has exercised supreme command over the much largest body of troops ever called into action by the United States government. His services in which military forces have ever been engaged have been recognized through the award of the highest decorations by the governing authorities of Belgium, Great Britain, China, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, Italy, Japan, Montenegro, Panama, Poland, Rumania and Serbia.

"Created 'Modest Army' "In his position as chief of staff since the termination of the world conflict he has been a mainstay to the executive in preparing an army of modest dimensions to be the nucleus of any military forces the country may be obliged to place in the field. He has taken a leading part in the development of the citizen components of the army of the United States.

"General Pershing has already received from the congress the thanks of that body and of the American people and now I extend to him new thanks of the nation for his eminent services and feel certain that I voice the sentiment of the entire citizenry of the republic in wishing him long life, happiness and prosperity in the retirement he has so richly earned.

LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY

The fountains mingle with the river,
And the rivers with the ocean,
The winds of heaven mix for ever
With a sweet emotion;
Nothing in the world is single;
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle—
Why not I with thine?

See the mountain kiss high heaven,
And the waves clasp one another;
No sister flower would be forgiven
If it disdained its brother;
And the sunlight clasps the earth,
And the moonbeams kiss the sea;
What are all these kissings worth,
If thou kiss not me?

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

CRACKER CHIEF DEFENDS FRIEND

Gave Stock, Car to Premier 'To Save Health'

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Sir Alexander Grant, Bart., millionaire owner of a Scottish cracker company, came today to the defense of his old boyhood chum, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in the controversy that is raging around discovery that the socialist premier holds 30,000 pounds worth of shares in the company in question.

The statement in the Daily Sketch today, Sir Alexander emphatically endorsed MacDonald's explanation of the affair.

Minister Fatigued "I found the prime minister, who was fatigued and almost ill, was using the underground to keep his London engagements and an old Ford car for week-ends in the country," said the baronet, who received his knighthood in June, three months after MacDonald received the biscuit shares.

"I protested Mr. MacDonald was being unfair to himself and to the country, and offered him a Daimler automobile. After some discussion I insisted upon 'endowing' the car so that it might be no expense to the prime minister or his family.

Preserving His Health "The nation should be grateful to me because I have something to preserve the health of this man."

The Morning Post, representative organ of the conservatives, says: "Mr. MacDonald has been a severe censor of bourgeois morals and the public standards of the 'capitalist parties.' Public traditions of this country may be imperfect, yet, we think, they would have prevented any statesman of the old order from receiving a gift of 30,000 pounds in March and making the giver a baronet in June."

HIS JOB

war years have had much to do with the complete disorganization of the world's trade since the armistice.

Gilbert will have to devise means of managing these transfers at such times and in such ways as to avoid violent exchange fluctuations. When it is considered that the transfer will be exceeding complicated and that they will run high into the billions, it becomes evident that this task comes about as near to an impossibility as ever was turned over to a human being.

Is Super Diplomat Gilbert must be a super-diplomat as well as a super-finance. It is more than a matter of money. Issues of future peace and war hang upon the way he carries out his work.

He accepted the post without salary stipulations. But it is understood he will receive $7000 a year, with reasonably generous allowances for expenses.

Gilbert graduated from Rutgers College when he was 20. He completed his law studies at Harvard.

He doesn't play golf.

CRAWFORD GETS $15,000 BOND

8-Hour Preliminary Hearing Given Attorney

DALLAS, Sept. 13.—William L. Crawford, Dallas attorney, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Paul M. O'Day here Thursday, was at liberty today under $15,000 bond. Date for trial has not been set.

Crawford was released on bond after an eight-hour hearing Friday in which it was indicated the defense would probably base their defense upon a plea of justifiable homicide. Testimony given by Mrs. Kate Crawford, mother of the defendant, was to the effect her son believed O'Day had insulted her and the memory of his father, the late Colonel William Crawford, in statements contained in a brief of a will contest involving settlement of the Crawford estate.

Rose, on the Port Arthur-Beaumont highway near Port Arthur. Rev. T. Alvis Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate at the funeral services, and burial will be made in Greenlawn cemetery, under the direction of J. E. Grammer, undertaker.

There will be no divine services and no Sunday school, since all are invited to attend the Mission Festival at Trinity Lutheran church, Fifth and St. Augustine avenue.

However, our Christian Day school will open Monday, Sept. 15.—In this our Christian Day school the children are taught not only all the secular branches taught in the public schools, but also the "One Thing Needful." They are shown the only way to salvation, viz: Through faith in Christ Jesus who died for all. Parents, you are responsible for the souls of your children. If you wish them to learn how to be saved and not only how to get along in this world, send them to our Christian Day school.

"Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not."—Mark 10, 14.

Yelderman To Deliver Sermon Published Recently

Rev. R. R. Yelderman recently wrote a sermon for a publishing house in England on the theme "Holding the Devil's Coat." This sermon was published along with others in book form in August and is having a wide distribution throughout the United States and Canada.

Rev. Yelderman will preach this sermon Sunday night at the First Christian church. It is not a sermon dealing with antediluvian subject matter nor with most ancient creeds, or threadbare theological hair-splitting opinions. Rev. Yelderman said this morning, but declared it to be a 1924 model, up-to-the-minute, hard-hitting, straight to the point Bible message to the human soul.

Several special musical numbers will be rendered at this service and in addition to these selections congregational singing will be indulged in by the congregation.

Beginning with Sunday night all night services at the First Christian church will commence promptly at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Yelderman said.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Mrs. Dube Well and Strong

E. Hartford, Conn.—"After a severe sickness I was so weak that I could not do my housework, so my mother told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me so much that I took six more bottles and I felt fine. I have just given birth to a nice baby girl and am feeling strong and well. So different from the way I felt before. I am taking the Vegetable Compound right along while nursing the baby seems to be in good health, and my friends say they see a big change for the better in me."—Mrs. EUGENE DUBE, 59 Woodbridge St., E. Hartford, Connecticut.

The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine to bring back health and strength. Many mothers have found this true, as did Mrs. Dube. There are women everywhere who know by experience the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

most High. God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God shall help her, and that right early." Ps. 46:1-5.

"The City of God" is the church of Christ, the communion of saints, the congregation of the faithful. The church is ever in this world in great tribulation, but she cannot perish. The church is always besieged, threatened, persecuted and ridiculed by her enemies, the flesh and the world. Yet the church remains a firm, invincible city, no matter how weak she may seem from the outside, devoid of battlements, ordnance and weapons, exposed to all the attacks of the enemy, situated in the midst of the enemy's camp. Why then does she not fear? Why does she even dare to be glad? "The Lord is in the midst of her." Jesus dwells in His believers. They are "all the habitation of God through the Spirit." Therefore, ye believing soul, though the world persecute you, do not lose courage, as long as you have the Lord with you, you shall not be moved. Only see to it that the Lord abides in you. If you fail to cling to Him; if you are not enclosed in Him as by a fortress and surrounded by Him as by a cordon of chariots, you will be put to shame.

SO GOOD TO HER

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13.—"He's so good to me," Mrs. Robert Clark said in court Saturday, refusing to prosecute her husband for nonsupport. She exhibited cards her husband had printed for her. They read:

The investment of the Robert McLane company in Rockdale will represent a sum of between $75,000 and $100,000, it is stated. LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESENTS COTT TO RUTH BURKE, CONTINUED.

So you see, dear Ruth, Jack and I are just about where we were when I came home to mother's.

He is absurdly jealous of Karl Whitney. I wonder why it is that a man is always more or less jealous of the man his wife refuses. Cannot he understand that she has settled the question once for all which man she cares for enough to marry by choosing him?

At that moment, when my mother came in, it just seemed to me as though I could not go on with it all. Ruth, why do we women have to keep fighting, fighting, to keep our husbands' love? Why do we have to flatter them by word and deed all the time? Why is it that the magazines are always telling women what they should do to keep their husbands still loving them? Why don't they sometimes tell a man what he should do to keep his wife's love? Why don't they make him understand that it is just as hard for a woman as a man to keep on loving without some encouragement?

I turned to my mother, and for the life of me I could not keep the tears back.

"What is it, dear, what is it?" she said.

"Mother, I'm going to have a baby."

"Is that what you've been telling Jack? Doesn't he want one?"

"Yes, he seemed very happy over the news."

"Then why are you crying, my daughter?"

"Because I've just received a telephone from Karl, and Jack was quite horrid about it."

"Karl is very silly to telephone you, my dear. He should have realized that men do not talk over the long distance telephone to other men's wives unless they are very much interested in them. Of course, I know that Karl is perfectly loyal and fine in this. Why, yesterday he called me up and talked with me about a bill house. Long distance telephone doesn't mean anything to Karl, you know. He does love to tell his troubles.

"He's very much worried over Alice, and so am I. Leslie, make it up with your husband at any cost to yourself. Nothing in the world is worth the wars you are shedding now. Let me feel that I do not have to worry over you any more."

"Oh, I expect we will make it up," I said wearily, "but why should he forget instantly all about the lovely things he had just been saying to me? Why should the fact that Karl Whitney was telephoning me to ask what he should do about the letter he had written to me blot out all the ecstasy and unity of soul that we had just been having? Why should he make me feel a kind of sordid and self-indulgent thing who must still be flattered by the attentions of a man I have refused to marry—a man who is already married to my own sister?"

"By implication he has made me one of the most immoral of women. He has made me feel that he thinks I could be a traitor to my sister as well as disloyal to him, to gratify my own pride of conquest."

"Mother, I cannot bear it. Jack will have to make some wonderful apology and some very fair promises before I can forgive him. This time he has hurt my pride, and I can be probably quite as implacable as he."

This letter is so long, my dear, that I am going to stop. I don't know what the next hour will bring forth, but I will probably save that to tell you when I see you.

Lovingly, LESLIE.

TRIPLE HARD LUCK RUINS MARLIN CAR

MARLIN, Sept. 13.—His car overturned, damaged by fire, and then stripped of two casings by some one who failed to leave his fingerprints. Tony Martonora, former shoemaker of Marlin, but now farming south of town, is bemoaning his luck. While en route to the farm with a bunch of cotton pickers, Tony attempted to dodge a hole in the highway, hit a loose sand bank, and over went his auto with contents. All the occupants escaped serious injury. The car was ignited and suffered heavy damage from fire. Tony started back to town to secure aid in removing the wreckage, and during his absence an unauthorized salvaging party got off with two of his casings.

The action seeking to make chicken stealing a felony follows many complaints of fine birds being stolen.

BANDITRY IN HOUSTON FRIDAY NIGHT PROBED

HOUSTON, Sept. 13.—Following a wholesale outbreak of banditry Friday night, in which robbers held up and robbed the occupants of seven cars in less than two hours, city and county officials were today planning drastic action to curb further outbreaks.

In several instances, the bandits, described by their victims to authorities as youngsters, stole the cars whose occupants they had robbed and escaped detection of hastily organized police posses by the rapid change in cars.

More than $500 in money and valuables were said to have been taken in the seven holdups reported.

CABINET CRISIS FACES GERMANY

Stressmann's League Stand May Split Reichstag

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Germany was confronted today with the makings of still another cabinet crisis.

Foreign Minister Stressmann's insistence upon sending a note to the powers denying Germany's war guilt, plus his disinclination to permit this country to join the league of nations, has caused fresh talk of dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections.

A breach between Stressmann and Chancellor Marx has widened as a result of the former insisting upon thrusting his anti-league views before the cabinet meeting next week.

THIRD LIBEL CHARGE MADE

Jack Walton's Paper Again Under Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 13.—The third charge of criminal libel to be filed within three months against Howard A. Tucker, editor of The Record, former Governor J. C. Walton's publication, was on file here today.

The charge was made by William A. McLaren, former Linotype operator at The Record. He alleged that a story under the caption "Millionaire Involved in Corrupt Klux Plot to Hijack Editor" accused McLaren and Dutch Utterback, another former employee, of attempting to criminally extort $1,500 from Tucker and his mother, Charlotte A. I. Tucker.

Tucker Accused
Tucker is alleged to have charged in the story that McLaren attempted to gain control of The Record to throw its support in favor of C. J. Wrightman, Tulsa millionaire, then a candidate for the democratic United States senatorial nomination against the impeached governor.

Two other news stories during the past three months in The Record have caused libel suits to be filed against Tucker. Sheriff Tom Cavnar is complaining.

THE DISADVANTAGE OF NOT OWNING AN AUTOMOBILE.
How do you spend your afternoons? What do you do to drive away the effects of the day's toils and worries? Or had you realized that anything was having effect on you?

Well, something has been affecting you. You have not been getting the proper recreation, consequently you are living to a certain extent in a cloud of stupidity, a dazed feeling seems to hang over you and you don't seem to realize what the fault is. This applies in the case of the housewife as well as the husband, as the woman's work is just as burdensome to her as the man's is to him.

Clear this feeling by getting yourself an automobile and getting out and change the scenery, "take on a little air," and you will feel like work the next day, and be in a better humor.

A good used automobile will do this just as well as a new one, and for far less money.

"I think we should take extra care when we make the new school suits for the Coon boys," said Mister Snip Snap to Nick.

"Mister Ringtail Coon has always been one of my best customers and I take great pains to have his suits exactly right.

"Well," said Nick to the fairy man, "I measured every inch of them as carefully as ever I could. And I'm sure they ought to look nice."

Mister Ringtail Coon was thinking about the same thing. "It's just like boys not to want to be dressed up," he chuckled, "when they've been accustomed to old clothes and bare feet all summer. But when the little rascals see how nice they are going to look, they will take more pride in keeping their faces and hands clean, and their ears washed and their hair brushed. The only thing that worries me is their appetites. I can't understand why they don't eat more. But, of course, they'll look better a bit thinner. Their suits will fit all the nicer."

"If he could have seen them at that minute, he wouldn't have worried a mite about their appetites.

For they were A. Mister Farmer's sweet-corn patch, stuffing out their sides like Christmas turkeys, so they were.

"No, thank you, Uncle Ring, we don't want any supper," they said again that evening. "We can't eat anything at all."

"What?" cried the coon gentleman. "Not tonight, either! Why, you'll be starved. You'll get as thin as bean-poles!"

He was a little bit, I mean a good bit, near-sighted, or he would have noticed they were getting as fat as butter-halls.

About three days after that two neat little boxes came from "Nancy, Nick & Company's" shop. They were all tied with string and looked too nice for anything.

"Here, boys!" called Mister Ringtail Coon. "Come and try on your new suits. I'm sure you are going to look very handsome. I'm only sorry you are so thin."

Cobby looked at Cobby, and Cobby looked at Cobby.

"All right, Uncle Ring," they called. "We're coming!"

But the coon boys had gotten so fat on the sweet-corn that the coats wouldn't go half-way round. And the trousers simply wouldn't button up at all.

"I know why," called down Tattle Tale Crow. "I've been watching, and your nephews have been stealing corn and that makes them fat."

"We're sorry, Uncle Ring," said Cobby and Cobby when they saw how sorry their uncle looked. "We promise not to do it any more. And we'll be good boys and try to keep clean and everything."

Which they did, I'm glad to say. They soon got thin again, and their suits looked just fine. And they always remembered to wash their ears, too.

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

GAMA'S PRESENTS ARE AMUSING

The King of Calicut made a sign for his visitors from Portugal to come near him. He ordered that they be given water to wash their hands and some fruit to eat, including ripe bananas.

The king looked at the Portuguese as they ate and a smile passed over his face.

"Alas," replied Gama, "I have no gold with me. But when I come back from Portugal again, I shall bring far richer presents with me."

Going to the palace with no present at all, he asked to have a visit with the king. He was kept waiting four hours because he was a day late and the monarch was angry.

Gama tried to cool the temper of the king and succeeded in part. Then he asked to be allowed to trade some of the wares he had brought from Portugal—wheat, cloth, iron and bronze.

"Yes, you can buy and sell," replied the king.

That was the signal for the beginning of trading which lasted, off and on, for almost three months. In return for what they had brought, the Portuguese got spices and jewels.

His ships, well-loaded with rich cargo, Gama gave orders for the return to Portugal. He followed much the same route as that by which he had come. He landed at Lisbon the end of the summer of 1499 after a trip which took a full year.

Gama was hailed as one of the greatest sea captains of human history—and indeed he was.

his face. Then he asked Vasco da Gama what he had to say.

Gama replied that he wished to speak to the king alone, so they withdrew to a private chamber. The Portuguese leader said he came from the land of a great king in the west. He said that king had told him to reach India or he would lose his head!

The Indian ruler listened politely. He said his visitors were welcome and promised to send ambassadors to Portugal. The captain, on his part, promised to return the next day, with a letter and presents.

CHECK TIRE PRESSURE

Check air pressure in the tires on a new car is the suggestion of a Firestone service department expert. While slipping from the factory with the correct inflation tire, air may be lost on the dealer's floor or in warehouse and sometimes pressure is not checked on new cars before delivery.
